

BarnCamp 2011

June 9-12th in the Lower Wye Valley

A black and white photograph of a satellite dish positioned behind a wooden fence in a rural landscape. The dish is a large, parabolic structure mounted on a pole. The fence is made of horizontal wooden rails. In the background, there are rolling hills and some trees. The overall scene is rural and somewhat desolate.

upgrade your activism

<http://hacktivista.net/barncamp/>

HacktionLab production supported by:
Undercurrents, Indymedia, Aktivix, Bristol Wireless, VisonOn.TV

BarnCamp 2011

June 9-12th - Lower Wye Valley

Three days of workshops, discussions, hack spaces and Barcamp-style open-discussion spaces on topics including citizen journalism, computer security and privacy, running an internet radio station, renewable energy and mobile sound systems, foraging for food, open source software, audio editing and much more; with campfire entertainment, open stage, live music, beautiful views, staying on an organic farm co-op. For techies and non-techies alike.

Food and camping is included for the price of £30.

So book now at: registration.hacktivista.net

Or for enquiries email: barncamp2011@hacktivista.net

upgrade your activism